JEROME IN A HUFF GIVES UP IDEA OF CALLING MORE WITNESSES AGAINST THAW

Declares He Will Not Bring Testimony to Prove Prisoner Insane, and Is Curtly Called to Time by Commissioner Olney.

SOME QUESTIONS THAT WERE ANSWERED BY THAW

He Impressed the Commission Very Favorably—They Will, It Is Said, Report He Is Sane, and Trial Will Then End Next Week.

In the midst of the oral examination of Harry Thaw by the lunacy commission yesterday, while the prisoner was answering readily and intelligently every question that his inquisitors put to him, District-Attorney Jerome suddenly startled the commission by announcing that he had practically abandoned his fight to put Thaw in an asylum almost before it had begun. He added that under no consideration would he bring any witnesses forward in support of his week-old declaration that Thaw is at present mentally incompetent to confer with the counsel who are defending him for the murder of Stanford White.

Commissioner McClure, who was presiding, gazed at the prosecutor in mute astonishment. Commissioner Olney, sitting on his right, lost his patience entirely.

"You perhaps forget, sir," he said, sharply, "that the statutes require you to attend all meetings of this lunacy commission and to aid us in arriving at a conclusion as to the best of your professional and official abilities. Please remember, Mr. Jerome, once for all, that you will bring forward any witnesses whom we may desire to question."

For the rest of the session Jerome sat dumb in his chair, never once making any suggestion or joining in any discussion that arose. As soon as the proceedings ended he announced positively that he would not attempt to get before the commission the testimony of any of his high-priced allies who made affidavits for him to the effect that Thaw is a paranoiac, nor the testimony of any layman.

Defense Won't Offer Anything New.

Since the lawyers for the defense are abundantly satisfied that Harry Thaw's own words have already proven their contention that he is now sane they will not bring forward any other witnesses unless the commissioners express a desire to question some one in the case. At the last minute they may decide to introduce some of the wardens and keepers in the Tombs, who after guarding Harry Thaw for nine months have never been able to catch him in one irrational act of speech.

Otherwise the insanity proceedings will end some time to-morrow. The most important lunacy commission that ever sat in New York County will have been one of the shortest-lived on record.

It is confidently believed by Thaw's lawyers—and this belief is shared by most of those who are following the trial—that the commissioners will hand to Justice Fitzgerald a Monday morning report declaring that the young millionaire is amply competent to confer with his counsel and to assist them in the preparation of his case.

If this is done the trial may be resumed on Monday afternoon. The attorneys for the defense will promptly close their case without offering any of the evidence which they had held in reserve for the last of the rebuttal, believing that Jerome has destroyed his last prospect of securing a conviction by his recent action.

Defense to Sum Up Tuesday.

Mr. Delmas thinks that he will sum up for the defense on Tuesday. Justice Fitzgerald has already stated that he will allocate whole days to either side for its final argument. Mr. Jerome ought to be able to sum up Wednesday.

Justice Fitzgerald's final instructions to the jurors will probably be short. The

KIDNAPPED BOY IS IN NEW YORK, LETTER SAID

Police Hurry to Number Given and Find a Power-House.

A dispatch received late this afternoon from Dover, Del., stated that Dr. H. N. Marvin, of that place, whose three-and-a-half-year-old son disappeared March 4, had just received by mail a letter containing the following message:

"Go to No. 143 East Twenty-fifth street, New York, and get your boy."

(Signed) "BRUNER."

The building No. 143 East Twenty-fifth street is the old Lexington cable building. The lower floor is now used as a power-house, the six upper stories being tenanted by publishing companies and business firms.

No one in the building is named Bruner, but it was recalled that an expressman named Bruner occasionally brought packages to the building. It was said that that name is now connected with the business. No other Bruner is known in the neighborhood.

The Bayonne, N. J., police have received an anonymous communication saying that if a thorough search was made in that city the missing Marvin boy, of Delaware, would be found there.

Chief of Police John York and about a dozen policemen are carrying out the suggestion and making a thorough search.

York said that the letter bore the Bayonne postmark, but would not allow it to be seen.

(Special to The Evening World.)

ATLANTA, Ga., March 29.—"Home Run" Johnson, the minor league recruit, donned a New York uniform and played left field for the Highlanders today's game. Jennings turned him over to Griffith this morning, and he will remain with the club for two days. He will then be sent to Trenton, where Kittredge will try to make a ball-player of him.

Johnson is the man who hit the two home runs off Joe McGinnity in an exhibition game at Bradford, Pa., last summer. He is said to have the makings of a ball-player for another year or so. Elberfeld is still in hot bad shape to get in the game, so Conroy was brought in from the outfield to play short. Following close on the heels of a good showing before the people of Atlanta, there was a crowd of 1,200 on hand when the game started.

First Inning.

Hoffman doubled to left. Keeler sacrificed to center. Hoffman sacrificed to center. Dyer to Dyer to Smith. Mortarily struck out. "ONE RUN."
